

My name is Emmeline Pankhurst. I campaigned in Britain for the right of women to vote.

City Life

Napoleon III and Eugene Haussmann completely rebuilt Paris in the early 1900s. The new Paris had broad tree-lined streets, gas lights, and a better sewer system. As a result, people had more space, crime was reduced, and there was less disease.

New York had a lot of the same problems as Paris with overcrowding, but since it was an island, they had no room to expand. To fix its problems, they built skyscrapers, parks, and bridges. Skyscrapers were possible with the invention of steel.

After the Triangle Shirtwaist Factory Fire, trade unions started to become popular. They wanted better hours for workers, better working conditions, and higher pay.

My name is Susan B. Anthony. I was arrested for trying to cast a vote in the US presidential election.
