

Industrial Revolution

The Industrial Revolution was an extreme change in the way things were made. It started in Great Britain because there were a lot of natural resources. These included water, ships and harbors and coal and iron.

I'm Adam Smith! I'm called the father of modern economics. I wrote a book called The Wealth of Nations.

The new machines of the Industrial Revolution helped to increase cloth production. This was a good thing! However, there were some bad effects. Children went to work in the factories, people got hurt and worked really long hours.