

Manufacturing & Communication

During the Manufacturing Revolution, there were more factories, because of the increased need for goods. Afterwards, it was easier to get goods from far away.

During the Communication Revolution, communication was made easier because of the telegraph. It was invented by Samuel Morse.

As a result of all the technological revolutions, life changed!